Part 1 - RAVLT 1-7

List A – Trial 1

[Record Time]

"I'm going to read a list of words to you. When I get to the end I want you to tell me as many different words you remember from the list. You can tell them to me in any order, just as many as you remember. When I finish reading, I want you to have a good long think for me. Wait until I am finished reading the list to tell me the words."

Read the words at a rate of approximately one word per second. Total list should take approximately 18 seconds to read.

"Tell me as many words as you remember."

Tick words if correct. Tally under each column. Write any variations or new words participant produces at the bottom of the scoring sheet. If a participant keeps saying words incorrectly (e.g., cat for hat) make sure to enunciate words on next read through. Record any errors (E) and perseverations (R).

List A – Trial 2 - 5

"I'm going to read the same list of words again. Again, when I finish, tell me as many words you remember, in any order, including words you said before. Again, it doesn't matter what order you say them, just try and tell me as many words as you can."

If participant understands then Trial 3 - 5: "Same thing again"

Part 7 – RPM

[Record Time]

Place the RPM booklet in front of the respondent so it shows the 1st matrix.

"On this page is a large rectangle with a pattern inside"

Trace the outside of it.

"There is a piece missing"

Point to the missing piece

"One of these 8 pieces fits with the pattern. Which is the missing piece that fits the pattern?"

Once the respondent gives the correct answer, record that with a tick in the appropriate box on the score sheet. Now turn to the second matrix.

"Some of the options you can choose from may be very similar to the right answer but only one option is correct. Take as much time as you need."

Go through each matrix. Make sure you still appear to be writing a response down for each matrix even if their answer is incorrect. Go through all 12 matrices.

[Record Time]

Part 6 – NART

Place the NART word list in front of the respondent.

"Your next task is to read each of these words aloud to me."

Point to the word CHORD

"Start here and read aloud down each column. Take your time. You may start now."

Use the scoring card and place an X next to each word that is pronounced incorrectly.

List B (grey)

"I'm going to read a second list of words to you. Again, when I get to the end, tell me as many words you remember from this new second list. Don't tell me words from the first list, just this new second list"

Read the words at a rate of approximately one word per second. Total list should take approximately 18 seconds to read. Record any errors (E) and perseverations (R).

List A – Trial 6 (immediate delayed free recall)

"Now tell me all the words you remember from the first list. Not the second list, the first list that I read to you several time."

Do not read the first list again. Do not indicate that you will ask participant about the list later on. Record any errors (E) and perseverations (R).

Part 2 - BVMT-R 1-3

Learning Trials 1 through to 3

Place a blank piece of A4 paper labelled ‘T1’ in front of the respondent along with a pencil and eraser.

“I will show you a sheet that has six figures on it. I want you to try and remember as many of them as you can. You will have just 10 seconds to study the entire display. I will present the figures right here”

Place hand at the edge of the blank paper closest to you, approximately 16 inches in front of the respondent.

“After I take the display away, try to draw each figure exactly as it appeared and in its correct location on the page.”

Repeat the instructions and clarify them as often as necessary. Make sure the appropriate form has been attached to the card and place it face down in front of the respondent. When the respondent is ready, expose the stimulus from a distance of approximately 16 inches, resting it at the bottom edge of the blank page on the table-top and holding it in an upright position. It is imperative that the stimulus card be exposed for a full 10 seconds. Do not begin timing until the respondent is scanning the stimulus. After the 10 second period, remove the stimulus card and say the following:

“Now draw as many of the figures as you can remember in their correct location on the page.”

The respondent is permitted as much time as is necessary for the task, and he or she is encouraged to draw the designs as precisely as possible (use of an eraser is permitted). The examiner may encourage the respondent to guess if he or she is uncertain about a response. After he or she indicates that they by answering either yes or no. Record the respondent’s answers on the scoring sheet by writing either a Y or N next to each item. It is important to record each response, regardless of whether or not it is correct, to avoid conveying to the respondent any information about the accuracy of the response.

Part 5 – BVMT-R 4 + Recognition

[Record Time]

Do not start until it has been 25 minutes since the end of Part 2

Delayed Recall Trial

Place a blank piece of A4 paper labelled 'DR' in front of the respondent along with a pencil and eraser.

"Remember the figures I showed you before? I want to see how many you can remember now. I know it sounds difficult but try to draw as many of the figures as you can in their correct location on the page. Remember, try to draw them accurately. Just do the best you can."

After the respondent indicates that he or she is finished drawing, immediately take their drawing and place it face down, out of sight.

[Record Time]

Immediately after the Delayed Recall trial is complete, position the appropriate recognition stimulus booklet in front of the respondent.

"Now I will show you some more figures, one at a time. Some were on the display I showed you before and others are new figures you have not seen before. Say "yes" for those figures that were on the display and say "no" if I show you a figure that was not on the display. Do you understand? Now, yes or no, was this one of the figures I showed you before?"

The respondent is permitted as much time needed to decide "yes" or "no" for each recognition item. "I don't know" or similar responses are not permitted. Encourage the respondent to guess are finished drawing, ask the respondent to put the pencil down. Take their drawing and place it face down, out of sight, and give them a new sheet labelled 'T2'.

"That was fine. Now I would like to see whether you can remember more of the figures if you have another chance. I will present the display again for 10 seconds. Try to remember as many of the figures as you can this time, including the ones you remembered on your last attempt. Try to draw each figure precisely and in its correct location."

Pause to answer any questions the respondent may have, make any notes or comments on the answer sheet, and then again expose the stimulus as described above for exactly 10 seconds. After 10 seconds remove the stimulus booklet and have the respondent draw his or her responses on the response sheet for trial 2. After the respondent indicates that they are finished drawing, take their drawing and place it face down, out of sight, and give them a new sheet labelled 'T3'.

"That was fine. Now I would like to see whether you can remember more of the figures if you have another chance. I will present the display again for 10 seconds. Try to remember as many of the figures as you can this time, including the ones you remembered on your last attempt. Try to draw each figure precisely and in its correct location."

After the respondent indicates that he or she is finished drawing, immediately take their drawing and place it face down, out of sight.

"Try not to forget the display because I may ask you to remember the figures later."
